PROCEDURE FOR SAMPLE DISPATCH

Copa Cervezas de América 2019

IMPORTANT: This document aims to clearly indicate how beer samples registered on the Copa Cervezas de America contest must be sent. It serves as a complement to the contest's Terms and Conditions, published on the website.

Responsibility and Scope

It is the person in charge of the entry's responsibility to correctly identify, package and dispatch samples to the address pointed out by the organization.

Once samples are properly received, the organization will be responsible for their appropriate storage and transportation.

Together with our sample reception centers, we commit ourselves to:

- Store beers in a cold chamber with temperatures no higher than 4°C (*)
- Internationally ship by air to Chile.
- Move beers as little as possible.
- Not expose beers to sunlight.
- Avoid abrupt temperature changes.

(*) Beer deliver to our office address may stay up to 48 hrs. out of a cold chamber

Packaging Responsibility

The brewer must be particularly careful packaging beers appropriately inside the box. Glass to glass contact among bottles must be avoided and there must always be some kind of material in between to prevent contact, such as cardboard or packaging plastic.

It is the brewer's exclusive responsibility to adequately and reliably package beer samples.

Poor and unsatisfactory packaging will not be the organization's or the sample reception center's responsibility.

Bottle labelling

It is compulsory that samples are identified with their commercial label/tag. Bottles MUST NOT have collars or any kind of identification on the bottle neck. It is the brewery's responsibility to remove collars before samples are sent.

Shipment Costs

Sample shipment costs to Copa Cervezas de América are each participant's responsibility.

Courier

We recommend using a traditional well-known couriers to dispatch all samples.

Sample Identification

Each bottle must clearly point out the Entry Number. The Entry Number, which corresponds to the single identification given for the registered beer, has 3 digits and will be informed by the organization once the entry is done.

The package or box must be identified on the outside with information regarding the amount of bottles and entry number for all registered beers included in the box or package.

Sample Amount

Participants must send the following amount of samples according to each bottle size.

Bottle/Can Size	Sample Amount
Containers of 300 ml (10,1 oz) or less	8 units
Containers from 301 ml (10,2 oz) to 499	6 units
Containers from 500 ml (16,9 oz) to 700	4 units
Containers over 701 ml (23,8 oz)	3 units

Deadlines

Samples will be accepted during an established time window.

Samples that fail to meet the established deadlines (either before or after defined dates) will be excluded from the contest.

There will be no refund for those entries whose samples do not reach the competition.
